TAADAS Recovery Banquet and Awards 2013

TAADAS celebrated Recovery Month for 2013 with its annual Banquet and Awards on September 19th at Trevecca Nazarene Community Church. The event was attended by such dignitaries as (left to right above) Bill Gupton, Assistant Commissioner TN Department of Corrections, Derrick Schofield, Commissioner TN Department of Corrections, Doug Varney, Commissioner TDMHSAS, Rod Bragg, Assistant Commissioner TDMHSAS, and John McAndrew, singer and songwriter who provided the evenings entertainment and recovery message.

TAADAS was especially pleased to recognize the support of Senator Rusty Crowe of Johnson City and Representative Gerald McCormick of Chattanooga this year. Both these Legislators were given our Voice of Recovery Award. Additional awardees are noted inside this edition.

Inside This Edition:

This year's Recovery Month Banquet and Awards was attended by 190 people representing the 56 organizations, affiliates and individual members of TAADAS. TAADAS has grown significantly over the past year and a half due to increased outreach and collaboration with many community and state level partners.

TAADAS was pleased to have TDMHSAS Commissioner Doug Varney (pictured left) provide an report to describe state initiatives and accomplishments for the TAADAS Banquet and Award attendees. Commissioner Varney was very complimentary of the growth and efforts of TAADAS to provide leadership and advocacy on addiction issues.

John McAndrew, TAADAS member and singer/songwriter (pictured right) was a highlight of the evening as he performed several of his own compositions for the audience and described his recovery journey in both words and song.

TAADAS was also pleased to recognize the support given by the Legislature to Adolescent Residential Treatment Services. Senator Rusty Crowe and House Leader Gerald McCormick (pictured right) sponsored a budget amendment that restored $2.36 million to support these services for families that have no other means to pay for them. TAADAS honored Sen. Crowe and Rep. McCormick by presenting them our 2013 Voice of Recovery Award and we appreciate that they were able to attend and meet many of our members.

Tennessee Department of Mental Health & Substance Abuse Services —Division of Substance Abuse Services

- Rod Bragg, Assistant Commissioner

Prescription drug abuse is a pervasive, multi-dimensional issue that is impacting Tennessee individuals, families and communities and requires a coordinated and collaborative response. Of the 4,850,000 million adults in Tennessee it is estimated that 221,000 or 4.56% have used pain relievers in the past year for non-medical purposes. Of those adults, it is estimated that 69,100 are addicted to prescription opioids and require treatment for prescription opioid abuse. The other 151,900 are using prescription opioids in risky ways. The remaining adults in the population would benefit from broad-based prevention strategies that target the entire population.

The abuse of prescription drugs, specifically opioids, is an epidemic in Tennessee, with disastrous and severe consequences to Tennesseans of every age. Prescription drug abuse is resulting in increases in: overdose deaths; emergency department visits; hospital costs; newborns with Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome (drug dependent newborns); children in State custody; and persons incarcerated for drug related crimes.

Over the past ten years there has been a drastic shift in the primary substance of abuse for Tennesseans receiving publicly funded treatment services. For many years, alcohol was the primary substance of abuse. However, in 2012, prescription opioids surpassed alcohol as the primary substance of abuse.

According to 2010 data comparing persons in state funded treatment programs across the United States, Tennesseans were more than three times more likely to identify prescription opioids as their primary substance of abuse than the national average. There has been a rapid shift in how treatment services are being delivered. More detoxification is utilized.

As dreary as this data is, there is hope. With treatment and the support of 12 step programs, families are reunited. Stable housing and employment are increased. People do recover.

National Depression Screening Day is October 8th

The Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities would like for Tennesseans to be aware of National Depression Screening Day on Thursday, October 8, 2009. Screenings are free and open to the public. Participants can take an anonymous test to check for signs of depression or a related disorder, and resources will be available on how to seek affordable help.

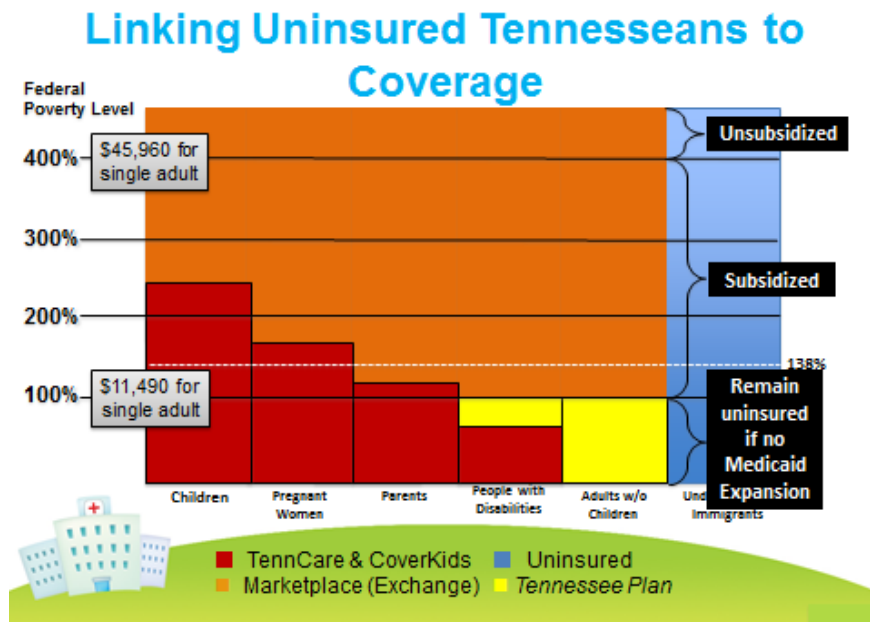

TDMHDD is sponsoring free depression screenings on Thursday, October 8th in Conference Rooms A and B in the Cordell Hull Building, 425 5th Avenue North, Nashville from 11 a.m. – 2 p.m. Appointments can be made by calling 1-800-560-5767 or 615-532-6700. Walk-ins are also welcome, and all screenings are confidential. Those persons interested in doing a free online screening can visit www.mentalhealthscreening.org.

To find a National Depression Screening Day event in your area, please visit www.mentalhealthscreening.org. For additional mental health and substance abuse information please contact the Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities' Office of Communications at (615) 253-4812 or visit www.tn.gov/mental.

ACA Implementation and SAMHSA Grant issues for Tennessee

By Mary Linden Salter, Executive Director of TAADAS

Implementation of the ACA originally assumed Medicaid expansion would be in place in every state. If Tennessee does not implement Medicaid expansion or Governor Haslam’s Tennessee Plan, an estimated 180,000 to 225,000 Tennesseans will be left without any potential for health care coverage in this new system. This will include childless adults and parents of children who are on TennCare but do not qualify for coverage themselves. The charts below illustrate the gaps in coverage:

SAMHSA is currently gathering information from the states to make decisions concerning FY 2015 grant awards. Without an approved Medicaid or Tennessee plan expansion, Tennessee is in a unique situation and will continue to need SAMHSA Block Grant funds as a major source of support to serve the uninsured. Currently, using mostly SAMHSA block grant funds, Tennessee served 13,000 uninsured people in addiction treatment centers in FY 2012. It is estimated that 304,000 Tennessee adults “needed but did not receive treatment for alcohol use in the past year” and about 106,000 Tennessee adults “needed but did not receive treatment for illicit drug use in the past year” according to TN Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Service estimates.

Drug overdose deaths in Tennessee are increasing. The number of drug overdose deaths in Tennessee increased from 422*in 2001 to 1,059*in 2010. The number of drug overdose deaths in 2010 represents an increase of 250% over the 10 year time period. The economic cost of non-medical use of prescription drugs in Tennessee was estimated to be $1.4 billion. Addiction is a treatable disease that sees a return on every dollar invested in treatment with between $4 to $7 in reduced drug related crime, criminal justice costs and theft. When you add the additional savings to our healthcare costs, the investment of $1 yields $12 in overall savings.

* Includes all drug overdose deaths where the manner of death was listed as one of the following: accidental, undetermined, suicide (intentional), or homicide. According to Office of Policy, Planning and Assessment, Tennessee Department of Health – Death Certificates.

Groundbreaking!!

The Next Door is excited to announce its new Community for Women has started construction! The Groundbreaking Ceremony to mark this important milestone was held on Sunday, September 29. The new location is pictured in the rendering to the left. It will be adjacent to an existing housing program. The Next Door provides a variety of services designed to address the mental, physical and spiritual needs of women in substance-abuse crisis. Each woman receives on-going individual case management to support her recovery process and may have access to any of the services at the appropriate stage of treatment. The programs and services offered at The Next Door are designed to prepare women for living independent lives, becoming productive member of their communities and successfully reuniting with their families.

Currently, The Next Door has locations in Nashville, Knoxville and Chattanooga. The new facility in Nashville will allow a more integrated physical health and behavioral health service approach and allow space for new programs.

The VA Medical Center Host First Mental Health Summit

by Kyle Duvall, Director, Organizational Advancement, Welcome Home Ministries

The VA Medical Center's Third Annual Homelessness Summit and First Annual Mental Health Summit in Smyrna, Tennessee, was an excellent opportunity to enter into meaningful dialogue with VA officials and summit facilitators regarding the challenges agencies encounter in determining and responding to the needs of homeless veterans. Particularly helpful was the time spent in "breakout groups." These discussions focused on contributing factors to homelessness, such as mental health disorders and alcohol & drug addictions.

The good news is there is an commendable effort in progress through the Department of Veterans Affairs in partnership with HUD to provide housing options for homeless veterans, especially permanent supportive housing. However, the topic that dominated the afternoon "breakout session" in which I participated, centered around the concern that some veterans who were receiving recovery support services in transitional housing had not completed the addiction recovery program in which they were engaged, prior to being offered an option to move into permanent supportive housing. One agency raised the concern that a veteran had recently entered the agency's addiction recovery program in a sober living transitional housing community, but was offered an option to move into an apartment (permanent supportive housing) within approximately one week of entering the recovery support program. In a discussion regarding what was in the best interest of the client, this example certainly stood out as not being acceptable for the client, who needed a period of stabilization and recovery support. Furthermore, one week was not enough time for the agency to begin the process of helping this veteran find employment -- required for self-sustainability, or address his addiction needs. Additionally, it was pointed out during the discussion that the VA was doing an excellent job of providing "per diem" support for veterans in transitional housing who suffer from addictions and/or co occurring disorders. These previously homeless veterans were no longer on the streets, and receiving recovery support services in transitional housing. A point was made that while permanent housing is the most desirable end result for clients in terms of ultimate housing options, our clients suffer from addictions and need a more structured recovery focused living environment in transition, so they may truly become self-sustainable (and whole). It was suggested that once the client stabilizes, completes the addiction recovery program and demonstrates self-sustainability -- at this point -- the VA was encouraged to assist the client in acquiring permanent supportive housing.

We're not only providing housing for homeless veterans, we are providing addiction recovery support services for them in a sober living community to facilitate long term recovery and self-sustainability to reduce recidivism to homelessness." Consider: "Over the past 20 years the high cost of housing (especially in urban areas) was a major obstacle in creating stable living environments for persons in recovery worse. For instance, a frequent complaint by residential treatment providers is the lack of affordable housing for clients who leave their facilities. When clients are released from residential programs into economically deprived neighborhoods that do not actively support abstinence, the recovery they established in treatment may be lost. Outpatient providers face a similar dilemma. Even if clients are engaged in outpatient treatment, motivated for change, and making improvements, their progress may be mitigated if they reside in a destructive living environment that triggers relapse (Polcin, Galloway, Taylor & Benowitz-Fredericks, 2004 -- "Communal Living Settings for Adults Recovering from Substance Abuse"-- NIH Public Access Author Manuscript, Douglas Polcin, Ed.D. -- 2009).

Perhaps the most productive aspect of the Summit for me was that the VA provided an environment conducive for meaningful dialogue, which afforded Summit participants the opportunity to discuss pertinent issues, educate each other, network and plan how we may better serve veterans who have served our country to protect our most cherished freedoms. Let's continue the dialogue with our friends at the Department of Veterans Affairs, discuss the issues and challenges facing the recovery community with VA officials, and nurture partnerships with the VA to provide the quality of care that not only helps to end homelessness, but provides the necessary tools for veterans with addictions and/or co occurring disorders to help them sustain their sobriety, recovery and reduce recidivism to homelessness.

NEWS FROM CAPITOL HILL

October 4, 2013

Nathan H. Ridley, Esq.

Popular Culture: No one goes to career day with the life goal of becoming an alcoholic. Addiction treatment often reminds us of the John Lennon quote that life is what happens while you are busy making other plans. CBS Television has a new program entitled “Mom”. The protagonist is a single mom who has been sober for 118 days. The writer is Chuck Lorre. After one episode, the show has some promise. The protagonist wants to start over. She has no idea how to do so, but is still trying.

State Budget Process: Preparation, deliberation, and execution are all part of the continual process that leads to a state budget. Tennessee's budget process begins in August of each year when the Commissioner of Finance and Administration issues budget instructions to all departments and agencies of state government. Agency budget requests are submitted to Finance and Administration, usually by October 1. This year's instructions have once again asked each department to submit a budget with a five percent reduction. During October and November, the Governor meets publicly with the departments and agencies to hear their budget proposals for the following fiscal year. After hearing from departments and agencies, the Governor prepares the fiscal proposal and will present it to the General Assembly by February 1, 2014. The General Assembly will then begin its deliberations and pass the budget before the fiscal year begins on July 1.

Bright Note: Sometime in the day to day grind of life, we forget to celebrate our successes. September, 2013 has seen another Recovery Month come and go. We need to nourish and cherish what we do. Recovery Month promotes the societal benefits of prevention, treatment, and recovery for substance use and mental disorders, celebrates people in recovery, lauds the contributions of treatment and service providers, and promotes the message that recovery in all its forms is possible. Recovery Month spreads the positive message, that prevention works, treatment is effective and people can and do recover. A Hebrew Scripture author of some note wrote, “This is the day that the Lord has made, Let us rejoice and be glad.” Perhaps, that author was on to something. This just concluded Recovery Month has permitted us to be glad, too. Perhaps, we should build on that.

Advocacy Notes: “I have come to the conclusion that politics is too serious to be left to the politicians,” Charles de Gaulle. General de Gaulle eventually became the President of France. Politics and good public policy are serious to TAADAS, too. So, TAADAS members use their dues dollars to advocate before the Tennessee General Assembly, also known as the state's board of directors. Most professional associations do this, and some would say that advocacy is the key role of a professional association. The business community in Tennessee understands this. It is no accident or coincidence that our state's leading corporate citizen, AT&T, has the largest number of registered lobbyists with 16 among the total of 518 registered lobbyists and a six figure political campaign account to boot. Some may observe that addiction treatment services are too important to have a five percent cut again.

Legislative Notes: On a somber note, we must remember the family of State Representative Lois DeBerry in our thoughts and prayers. Representative DeBerry died on Sunday, July 28, 2013. With her election in 1972, she was the first African American woman elected to the General Assembly from Shelby County and the second statewide. She was the longest serving member of the House. She served as Speaker Pro Tem of the House from 1987 until 2011. She developed an expertise in education and correction issues, and her opinions and demands for decorum were respected in the often rowdy State House. She was one of the better stump speakers around, and wise candidates and public officials coveted her support. Tennessee is a better place because of her willingness to serve.

Election Notes: The primary election in Shelby County for House District 91 to fill the vacancy caused by Representative DeBerry's death is October 8, 2013. The general election is November 21, 2013.

Calendar Notes: State offices will be closed Thursday, November 28, 2013 and Friday, November 29, 2013 in observation of the Thanksgiving Holiday. The 108th General Assembly will reconvene on Tuesday, January 14, 2014.

The 2013 "Tie Dye" Run for Prevention is a not-for-profit event, that will help raise money to send Henry County youth to the Tennessee Teen Institute in Cookeville, TN. The Tennessee Teen Institute is a five-day camp to help provide education and training in youth development, leadership, and prevention. TTI includes various formats of training including workshops, seminars, and activities that will help young people grow to be strong, healthy individuals who will have the skills they need to make a difference in the community in which they live. The run will be held on Nov 2nd at 10am.

The actual race is a non-timed, 5K run. How does the "Tie Dye" Run work? Pretty simple, you register as a team of 4, or as an individual. You get to pick a groovy custom team name like Roy G Biv or the Grateful Red and then, you will get to run/walk together and "help" each other out. There is no "relay" component and team members can finish together as a unit or separately.

The "Tie Dye" Run explosions are basically food grade cornstarch and are 100% natural and SAFE. As with any substance, you want to keep it out of your eyes and our "certified" color throwers will make sure to aim low as you pass by. Some "Tie Dye Runners" opt to wear glasses or goggles for their eyes and use a bandana or dust mask for their mouths.

In summary: We will work hard to make sure that our "Tie Dye Runners" get as much or as little color on them, as they like. Also, what separates our event from just any other event, is the fact that we are also going to use this venue for information dissemination about the coalition and prevention efforts in our community.

For more information about this event or other prevention activities, feel free to email Prevention Specialist , Josh Greer @ greerj@henryk12.net.

Journey Together Conference 2013

A Conference for Addiction Professionals

Presented by
Middle Tennessee Association for Addiction Professionals

This year’s Journey conference held September 22-25th was highlighted by several keynote speakers— notably Chip Dodd presenting on “The Essentials of Self—How We Lose How We are Made.” Dr. Franci Patterson also presented a keynote on ethics titled “What We Don’t Talk about Can Cause Ethical Dilemmas.” Toby Abrams (pictured left) and Kim Burchett were the co-chairs for the event.

TAADAS sponsored an evening networking reception for the participants and honorees. This year’s awardees included Jody Butler as Counselor of the Year and Terry Kinnaman for Lifetime Achievement. TAADAS member, Leland Lusk, received the award for Professional of the Year.

The Co-occurring Disorder Collaborative also made a presentation at the conference . Vickie Harden and Dr. Randy Jessee brought information about this initiative as well as practical approaches to treating this population in Tennessee. The Collaborative has several handouts that professionals can use in their offices and for community members who need information on resources.

Terry Kinnaman presented information on the status of LADAC rule changes that the LADAC Health Related Board is proposing. Those changes have been drafted and are being reviewed. The LADAC Board will schedule a public hearing to review the proposed changes as soon as the internal review process is completed. The Fall LADAC Board meeting has been moved from October 24th to November 8th at 9 am.

Thanks to all who participated and who made this year’s conference memorable.

There is Help for Problem Gamblers in Tennessee

What is Problem Gambling

As defined by the National Council of Problem Gambling, problem gambling is gambling behavior which causes disruptions in any major area of life: psychological, physical, social or vocational. The term “Problem Gambling” includes, but is not limited to, the condition known as “Pathological,” or “Compulsive” Gambling, a progressive addiction characterized by increasing preoccupation with gambling, a need to bet more money more frequently, restlessness or irritability when attempting to stop, “chasing” losses, and loss of control manifested by continuation of the gambling behavior in spite of mounting, serious, negative consequences.

While for many, gambling is a leisure-time activity, for some it is a problem and for others it can become an addiction.

Is there Problem Gambling in Tennessee?

Based on a report published by the University of Memphis, it has been estimated that there are over 200,000 persons in Tennessee with gambling problems. (Satish Kedia, Ph.D., The SAT Report, University of Memphis, Vol. 1, No. 3, 2004)

Are You a Compulsive or Problem Gambler?

Only you can decide. In short, problem gamblers are those whose gambling has caused continuous problems in any facet of their lives. The following 10 questions may help you to decide if you are a compulsive or problem gambler.

Have you ...

- often gambled longer than you had planned?
- often gambled until your last dollar was gone?
- had thoughts of gambling that caused you to lose sleep?
- used your income or savings to gamble while letting bills go unpaid?
- made repeated, unsuccessful attempts to stop gambling?
- broken the law or considered breaking the law to finance your gambling?
- borrowed money to finance your gambling?
- felt depressed or suicidal because of your gambling losses?
- felt remorseful after gambling?
- gambled to get money to meet your financial obligations?

If you or someone you know answers “Yes” to any of these questions, consider seeking assistance from a professional.

For confidential assistance, call the 24 hour, 7 days a week toll-free Tennessee REDLINE for help with gambling problems.

What is TAADAS?

The Tennessee Association of Alcohol, Drug and other Addiction Services (TAADAS) began March 26, 1976 when a group of concerned Tennesseans joined together in Chattanooga for the purpose of “creating and fostering a statewide association to promote common interest in prevention, control, and eradication of alcoholism and other drug dependency.” The TAADAS mission is to educate the public and influence state/national policy decisions in order to improve services to those who are affected by alcoholism, drug dependency and other addictions. TAADAS programs are funded in part by grants from the Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services, Division of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Services.

TAADAS’s purpose is to:

- promote the common interest in the prevention, control and eradication of alcoholism, drug dependency and other addictions;
- work in close cooperation with agencies concerned with alcohol and drug abuse, and other addiction issues;
- facilitate cooperation with all agencies interested in the health and welfare of the community;
- impact legislation regarding alcohol and drug abuse and other addictions;

As a statewide association made up of prevention programs, treatment agencies, recovery services and private citizens, TAADAS strives to be the Voice for Recovery in Tennessee through its membership and many programs.

It’s up to US to help others understand!

Alcohol and other drug dependence is a primary, chronic, progressive and potentially fatal disease. Its effects are systemic, predictable and unique. Without intervention and treatment, the disease runs an inexorable course marked by progressive crippling of mental, physical, and spiritual functioning with a devastating impact on all sectors of life — social, physiological, family, financial, vocational, educational, moral/spiritual, and legal. We must join together to focus attention in support of addiction treatment, prevention, and recovery. The public needs to understand that addiction is a treatable illness and that millions of people achieve recovery.

TAADAS Membership

Recovery Fest Nashville held a free event at Cumberland Park Saturday, September 14th to increase the visibility and attention that recovery deserves.

Mayor Karl Dean and Channel 4's Demetria Kalodimos attended the event, to celebrate sobriety and give hope to those struggling with addiction.

"I think we believe in second chances, because most people, if they're shown a path and given a helping hand, they're going to choose a life that is positive and healthy for themselves and their loved ones," Mayor Dean told the crowd.

He went on to say that he and the city are proud of people who are living a life of recovery.
